Successful completion of course work and passing scores on the comprehensive examination are required in order for students to advance to Ph.D. candidacy and present a dissertation proposal. Six of these courses must be at the 5000, 6000, or 7000 level and may be taken within the University. Of this, 48 hours are for coursework as follows: seven principal core courses (21 credit hours), two flexible core courses (6 credit hours), five specialization elective courses (15 credit hours), and a comprehensive examination (six credit hours). Our Ph.D. program equips you with critical thinking and research capacity on urban and comparative international governance issues. The third component is the face-to-face oral examination with the faculty committee. Telephone interviews may be arranged for students living outside a 50-mile radius. If a student fails the examination twice, s/he will be automatically dismissed from the program in accordance with general FIU policy. Dissertation (15 credits) Upon successful completion of the comprehensive examination, a student should select their Ph.D. Dissertation Committee with the help of their Ph.D. Dissertation Committee Chair. Admission is not restricted to students with prior course work in Public Administration. Please see below for an overview of the admissions process as well as more information about the program's curriculum and requirements. In the oral exam, the committee would seek clarifications and further explanations about the answers. Dear Prospective Ph.D. student, Thank you for your interest in the Ph.D. program in Public Affairs at FIU. In developing a specialization and program of studies, a student may consult with the faculty advisor, appropriate faculty members in public administration, as well as others related to the student's area of interest. If applicants take the language proficiency assessment administered by the International English Language Testing System (IELTS), a minimum score of 7.0 is desirable. Doctoral Degree Requirements To fulfill the Ph.D. degree in Public Affairs, admitted students must complete at least 63 credit hours beyond the Master's degree or its equivalent (75 total credits). By the end of the first year, students are required to develop a program of study with the assistance and approval of their advisor and the Program Director. Curriculum Principal Core Curriculum (21 credits) PAD 7277 Public Administration and the American Political Economy PAD 7155 Organizational Development and Change in Public and Nonprofit Organizations PAD 7703C Empirical Methods in Public Administration PAD 7705 Applied Quantitative Analysis IPAD 7707 Applied Quantitative Analysis IPAD 7055 Scope and Theory of Public Administration URS 7156 Reserch Practicum Flexible Core Courses (6 credits) PAD 7808 Economic Development and Urban Management PAD 7865 Development Administration PAF 7002 Foundations of Policy Analysis URS 7644 Managing Public Financial Resources URS 7380 Contemporary Management Issues and Problems Specialization Courses (15 credits) Students are required to take five courses in an area of specialization to be designed with the advisor. A faculty committee reviews both the written examination and the research proposal. With the help of the Ph.D. Director, the student is required to identify an appropriate Ph.D. Dissertation Committee Chair and Co-Chair (if required), both of whom may or may not be the same as the faculty advisor. A full time student would take 9 credit hours during Fall and Spring semesters, and 6 credit hours during Summer semester. Spring or Summer admissions will only be considered under special circumstances. The remaining 15 credit hours are for Ph.D. dissertation work. Then, the student is expected to make appropriate progress toward completing the dissertation, and to enroll continually (at least three credits per semester) until the degree is completed. If the student's principal area of interest is in a cognate discipline outside of the Department of Public Administration, the student and Ph.D. Director should consult with appropriate faculty in designing the program of studies. Upon the public defense and approval of the proposal, the student will initiate formal work on the dissertation. The total costs for full time international students (with out of state tuition rates) is estimated in the FIU's Declaration and Certification of Finances Form. You can also learn more about the program and hear from some of our recent graduates by reviewing our PA PhD Informational Video. The application deadline for Fall 2022 is January 15, 2022. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have further questions. Shaoming Cheng, Ph.D. Department Chair and Interim Program Director Email: scheng@fiu.edu Tel: 305.348.0432 Admissions Requirements Applicants should generally have a Master's degree prior to their enrollment, though outstanding applicants with only a baccalaureate degree may also be considered. Admitted students must demonstrate competence in the following areas: American political economy, advanced statistical and qualitative research methods, international development administration, organizational theory and design, and local economic development and urban management. There are additional fees for photo ID, health, athletic, and parking which total $885.60 during Fall, $875.60 in the Spring, and $642.41 during Summer. Students are advised to consult the doctoral program handbook for any additional information regarding benchmarks for student progress in grade point average, course completion, comprehensive examinations, and dissertation work. Green School of International and Public Affairs does not encourage such admission. Although the FIU online application system allows for other semesters, the Steven J. The Ph.D. in Public Affairs degree will be awarded upon a positive recommendation of the Committee and compliance with all policies and procedures required by the University. Award of Master's Degree to Ph.D. Candidates: Under certain circumstances, students directly admitted into the Ph.D. program following completion of their bachelor's degree, may be awarded a master's degree in public administration. Foreign applicants must demonstrate proficiency in the English language by presenting a minimum score of a 100 on the TOEFL iBT, which is equivalent to 600 on the paper-based Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL PBT). The Chair must be a faculty member with Dissertation Advisor Status. Comprehensive Examination (6 credits) Subsequent to completion of course work, students are required to pass a three-part comprehensive examination. Students should contact FIU's Institutional Review Board to ensure that their research meets the protocol for human subjects research before initiating their fieldwork. The total tuition and fees cost for the year would be $13,338.97 for Florida residents, and $26,444.17 for out of state students. The Chair or Co-Chair should have substantive expertise in the student's area of research interest. To be eligible, a student must complete core requirements in the master's program. The student should then finalize their dissertation proposal in consultation with the Committee. All students living in the South Florida area are strongly encouraged to interview with the Ph.D. Director during the admissions process. A photo ID fee of $10 is charged in Fall semester. Students are expected to defend their dissertation prospectus before the end of the first semester subsequent to passing the Comprehensive Examination. Further resources on estimating costs of attendance: The credit hours include 48 hours of approved course work (including comprehensive examination) and 15 hours of dissertation work after admission to candidacy. In addition, there is a residency requirement of at least 18 semester hours in three consecutive semesters of study during the first year of enrollment, and a minimum of six hours in all subsequent semesters. The student will then get a passing or failing grade in the overall comprehensive examination from the committee. If the student passes, s/he can move forward with the dissertation. These specialization electives may also be especially designed courses developed in conjunction with the student's faculty advisor and with approval of the Ph.D. Director. Students' are required to consult with their dissertation chair (and committee) about their proposal. The first component is a one-day long written examination testing for knowledge of the Ph.D. core and related materials. It broadly encompasses public administration, management, policy, and service and prepares you for research and analytic positions in universities, public agencies, and nonprofit organizations. During the first semester of the program, with the assistance and approval of the Program Director, students are required to select a faculty advisor who is a full-time faculty member relevant to the student's area of research interest. The Program Director may assign specific coursework to students with deficiencies in any of the above mentioned areas. Program of Study (Public Affairs) The Ph.D. program in Public Affairs is a 63 credit hours program (beyond a master's degree). Florida residents have to pay lower tuition costs as compared to non-Florida residents. Upon completion of the dissertation, the student should formally defend the research at a meeting conducted by the Ph.D. Dissertation Committee. The second component is a research proposal that will form the basis of the student's dissertation work. International students would normally be assessed the out of state tuition fees. The program encourages applicants with diverse academic backgrounds, with preference given to those with grounding in the policy or administrative sciences. S/he should then submit the University Graduate School's D-2 form (Program for Doctoral Degree and Application for Candidacy). A student who fails the examination on the first attempt must retake the examination at its next offering. The Graduate Tuition and Fees for the Academic Year 2021-22 are as follows: the tuition per credit hour is $455.64 for Florida residents, and $1,001.69 for non-Florida residents. Admitted students may transfer a maximum of 12 semester credits from other institutions towards Ph.D. degree requirements, subject to the approval of the Ph.D. Program Committee. Upon certification by the student's faculty advisor that this requirement has been met, the Ph.D. committee will approve the award of the master's degree upon passing of comprehensive examinations. Cost of Attendance The cost of attending the Ph.D. program at FIU depends on whether you are a Florida resident or not. At least three hours must be URS 7926 (Supervised Readings). Specialization areas may include subfields within the realm of public affairs (e.g., public budgeting and financing, human resource management; local government policies, urban management, international and comparative public administration, etc.) or may involve cognate disciplines (such as health services administration, criminal justice administration, environmental management, etc.). You must also take into account the living expenses, if you are coming from out of the state. Applicants should ideally demonstrate knowledge of American political institutions and fundamentals of social research methods. If you are interested in applying to the Ph.D. program please visit FIU's Graduate Admissions website to complete the online application. For international students interested in applying to the Ph.D. program, please visit FIU's International Graduate Admissions website for additional information and resources related to the application process and requirements.
